

BEAUTY TAKES A STAND

Meet the climate-conscious brands working towards a more sustainable future. Because every little helps, says Twiggy Jalloh

DIOR PRESTIGE LA CREME TEXTURE RICHE, £285
In order to better safeguard and respect the environment, Dior offers refillable bottles and jars within its Capture Totale, Dior Prestige and L'Or de Vie ranges.

NEAL'S YARD LAVENDER & TEA TREE BODY POWDER, £10
Neal's Yard obtains ethical and environmentally friendly ingredient alternatives, supporting small distilleries and communities in Nepal, Serbia and Kenya.

LUSH COSMETICS CHARITY POT HAND & BODY LOTION, £15
With each sale of a Charity Pot, Lush donates 100 per cent of the price (minus the taxes) to grassroots organisations working on environmental conservation, animal welfare and human rights.

SHEAMOISTURE AFRICAN BLACK SOAP SOOTHING BODY WASH, £12
SheaMoisture is economically empowering cooperatives in countries such as Ghana, Jamaica and Turkey, where its ingredients are grown.

ALBANY MAE 16 REGULAR ORGANIC TAMPON SUBSCRIPTION, FROM £4.50 A MONTH
Albany Mae provides biodegradable, plastic-free tampons that contain zero toxins and no fragrance.

CAROLINA HERRERA

GUERLAIN AQUA ALLEGORIA COCONUT FIZZ EAU DE TOILETTE, £59
Guerlain runs an education programme to raise awareness of the importance of protecting bees (the brand's emblem).

GARNIER MICELLAR CLEANSING WATER COMBINATION SKIN, £6
Garnier has partnered with TerraCycle to develop recycled packaging.

MAC COSMETICS MINERALIZE BLUSH IN NATURALLY FLAWLESS, £23
The Back-to-Mac scheme offers a complimentary lipstick to customers returning six Mac containers.

DR HAUSCHKA SHOWER CREAM, £12
Dr Hauschka is using recycled materials such as plastic milk bottles to package its body care products.

BY SARAH ORGANIC FACIAL OIL, £32
This plant-powered skincare brand is reducing its environmental impact at every stage, from organic farming to recyclable shipping materials.